

WHILE YOU'RE HEADED TO THE MATCH...

THEY'RE HOLDING THE CITY TOGETHER

While fans travel to World Cup matches in air-conditioned cars, trains, and buses—music on, excitement high—law enforcement officers and first responders are working in a very different reality.

WHAT THEY'RE DOING

- Directing traffic for packed venues
- Assisting out-of-town visitors
- Responding to accidents and medical emergencies.
- Managing crowd safety and unexpected incidents

WHAT THEY'RE CARRING

- 20–30 pounds of uniforms and protective gear
- Radios, duty belts, medical equipment, and safety tools
- The physical and mental weight of keeping millions safe

A MOMENT OF AWARENESS GOES A LONG WAY

A smile. • A thank-you. • A little patience in traffic.

AS THE WORLD COMES TO ATLANTA—

Let's remember the professionals who never stop working, even when the rest of the city is celebrating.
